

network as a restaurant. If someone were standing in the middle of a restaurant, shouting obscenities at the top of his lungs, wouldn't the restaurant owner be acting fully within her rights by escorting that person out so as to preserve a pleasant dining experience for everyone else there?

We do respect your right to hold certain political and religious beliefs and to espouse them in these spaces, and we will not curb such discussions as long as they do not involve any violations of our rules. In addition, we strongly encourage you to engage in spirited debate with others you might encounter on this site. All that we ask is that you limit any attacks to the substance of what someone is saying rather than engaging in personal attacks on those people as individuals.

DISCLAIMER PERTAINING TO MEDIA REVIEWED ON THE SITE

In recognition of its varied audience of young people, ChannelOne.com may review movies that are rated PG-13 or R as many community members are over the requisite ages, and some parents may decide that such films are appropriate for their children. We also review music CDs that include a parental advisory label. ChannelOne.com will not review movies or other media products that include explicit sexual content or extremely graphic violence. In addition, any review of any media on the site should in no way be construed as an endorsement of that product by ChannelOne.com or the Channel One Network.

